

ENGLISH BAROQUE CHOIR

Come and sing with us for the day

Saturday 6th September 2008
10am—5pm, St Sepulchre's
Newgate St, London EC1A 9DE

Conductor: Jeremy Jackman

Over the past 30 years, the English Baroque Choir has become one of London's leading amateur choirs. The choir's annual programme always includes performances at St John's Smith Square and other major London venues and choir tour destinations recent years have included France, Holland and Italy.

Jeremy Jackman was appointed musical director of the EBC in 2000. He is a vastly experienced professional musician having sung for ten years with the Kings Singers. He now works as a conductor for EBC, Cecilian Singers, Jay Singers and as a choral trainer giving courses in England and abroad; Canford Summer School, Lacock Winter School Benslow Music Trust and Laudeamus! He will bring all this experience to our Singing Day.

The repertoire for Saturday 6th September will be varied but will focus on Handel's Dixit Dominus. Hire copies will be available on the day for a small fee. Prompt start at 10am — coffee/tea from 9.30 — day ends 4.45pm. There will be a generous lunch break.

Students £5 Others £15.
For further information visit www.ebc.org.uk

Registration Form for Singing Day with the EBC 6th September 2008

CUT HERE

NAME _____ VOICE _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE NO _____ EMAIL _____

I will need a hire copy of Handel's Dixit Dominus: Yes No

Please return form with your cheque made out to English Baroque Choir, making sure it reaches us 1st of Sept. Send to: Ray Carlson, Treasurer, EBC, 13 Melville Road, London SW13 9RH. Acknowledgement and further information will be emailed/posted.